FOR BUSINESS OWNERS

Are you in the plumbing, electrical, valuation, project management, property or building profession?

Would you like to create and benefit from new avenues of income for your business?

Are you and your staff prepared to learn new skills?

Being able to produce a home inspection report (property analysis) allows you to build up your client base and increase your business' profitability by providing professional home inspection services to your clients.

The minimum qualifications are Grade 12 with one year experience in a property related field. Exceptions to this are possible upon special dispensation.

QUALIFIED PROFESSIONALS

With buyers wanting assurance that the home they are buying does not have any hidden flaws, sellers wanting to assure potential buyers that there will be no hidden costs which the buyer will need to budget for and current owners wanting assurance from an expert regarding their property, there has never been greater demand for home inspection in South Africa.

If you are part of this industry at present whether it be as a plumber, electrician or valuer, we can assist you in tapping into that market by training you as a home inspector capable of offering your current clients as well as new home buyers and sellers with a home inspection report on their property.

THE COURSE COVERS

The course will cover some of the following areas:

- Techniques and scope of inspection
- Types of home inspections
- Equipment required to perform and produce a home inspection report
- Legislation in South Africa versus rest of the world & our Code of Ethics
- The inspection process, how to perform an inspection and produce a home inspection report

In addition, we will provide you with templates that will enable you to produce a professional home inspection report for your clients.

YOU CAN START TODAY!

WHO NEEDS A HOME INSPECTION

Owners, buyers, estate agents, banks and any other interested party who would like to have detailed information at their finger tips - including photographs regarding a property.

In addition, any prospective buyer would obtain full disclosure with regard to the property.

As in the case of the certificate of compliance required for the passing of the ownership of a vehicle, a THITA inspection report provides the consumer with a home inspection certificate and report which may be used to ensure that "what you buy is what you get!"

In the same way, the professional and competent inspection of properties takes on new meaning and opens a world of possibilities for the entrepreneur who is prepared to go that one step further in providing a professional and reliable property related service.
